Schools and Teachers

BELFAST, Aug 17, 1867

EDITOR OREGONIAN

The Marion county Teachers' Association has just closed its annual session at this place The writer had the good fortune to be present at all its meetings, and throughout the session felt greatly edified and likewise very much gratified The attendance of Teachers was very large, most of whom were young persons who had but recently entered the profession.

The zeal and proficiency manifested by the class of teachers was the most noticeable and promising future of the Association

When the Association was first organized, a few years since, the persons engaged in teaching in the country were, with few exceptions, scarcely qualified to instruct the most illiterate aborigines of the South Sea Islands, neither concern of action nor social sympathy existed among them

Ignorance, stupidity and littleness of soul, seemed to be the distinguishing characteristics of many engaged in the delicate and responsible business of teaching. Places were by far too frequently secured and satisfaction given by envious and malicious defamation of more worthy predecessors

Perhaps no better memory painted sketch of those times could be given than by quoting as follows:

"There is a wilderness more dark
Than groves of fir on Huron's shore,
An i in that cheerless regi n dark!
How serpents hiss, how monsters roar

'Tis not among the untrodden isles
Of vast Superior's stormy lake,
Where social converse never smiles,
Nor sunbeams pierce the tangled brake

Nor is it in the deepest glade
Of India's tiger haunted wood,
Nor western forests unsurveyed,
Where crouching panthers lurk for blood.

'Tis in the dark uncultured soul
By education unrefine!
Where hissing malice, vices foul,
And all the hateful passions prowl,
The frightful wilderness of mind

But as change is stamped upon everything in nature,—from the little rivulet gushing from the mountain side, in the midst of eternal snows, meandering through forests and valleys and becoming a thoroughfare of commerce to continent bounded oceans—from the miniature germ incased in its parent seed, to the mightiest monarch of the forest, from the minutest insect of the entomological kingdom, to those gigantic and massive animal formations known only through the fossil records of a geologic era, or from the unwritten pages of infantile mind to the profound pre eminence of cultivated intellect that grasps at every science and sways every destiny of earth—so is it obvious to all that a change as grand as it is thorough has come over the educational affairs of Marion county.

Through years of indifference, distrust, and sometimes bitter opposition, a few faithful friends of the Public Schools, have steadily pursued their plans of organization and reformation, hoping for, and looking forward to a time when a better class of young men and women would be willing to engage in the laborious task of instructing the youth of the country, and although they may not feel that their efforts have, as yet, been crowned with complete success, those who attended of the recent session, do feel that a great and satisfactory triumph has been achieved

After the recommendation of a uniform series of text books, the topic which principally engaged the attention of the Association, was the interesting subject of Arithmetic, and, as the mariner no longer huge dikes or surf beaten rocks, nor fears to brave the ocean's fury, but guided by the unerring needle, securely breasts the wave and storm and treads the watery highways of the world with an ease that shows the mastery of his skill, so in the frequent discussions which arose on the more difficult portions of the subject, many of the teachers, discarding the familiar paths of long established rules, launched forth on the great but work of principles which underlie the relations of numbers, and in their subsoiling processes of reasoning, brought to light many singular things not "laid down in their books."

Of all those who used to attend, and engage in the discussions of the Association, in the earlier years of its existence, only five were present As I gazed upon the large assemblage of intelligent looking teachers, I could but think that

"Another and a better race
Has risen to the place"

Of the absentees, some excellent teachers were kept away by unavoidable circumstances, but many more, like the children of Israel, when they had fulfilled their duty in Egypt, have gone out to wonder, whether under the leadership of some modern Moses to perigrinate, during a probationary period of forty years, through the labyrinthian wilderness that borders the dark confines of ignorance, and whether from their number, the world is ever to be favored with the history of a Caleb or a Joshua, this deponent is not informed

Too many of our schools have been subjected to the control of persons who have neither qualification for, nor interest in, the profession of teaching, the only impress of whose genius is a disordered condition of the educational sentiment of the country, not very dissimilar from that of a routed and demoralized army

When viewed in its proper light, there is but little cause for surprise, in the senselessness which patrons often manifest on the subject of teachers' salaries

In many instances, the more sensible question would be not for how little will he agree to teach, but for how little will agree not to teach, for as there is no intermediate ground between good and evil, so there is none between success and failure, and while the teacher who succeeds is a valuable public servant and is worthy of a liberal salary, the teacher who, through his own incompetence, fails, is a positive evil—a public nuisance—and ought to be liable to heavy damages to the unfortunate district that may chance to be infested with his presence

The hope of the people for a general dissemination of knowledge, and a thorough preparation for the free and intelligent exercise of the high prerogative of American citizenship must be based upon the public schools, but how can the schools yield such fruits unless they be placed in the hands of men and women who are competent to conduct them, and how can such competency be acquired without much united and persevering labor

The time worn and oft-repeated maxim, that success in teaching is the result of some peculiar capacity on the part of the teacher is as baseless as it is pernicious in its effects

Success is no more to be looked for in teaching, as the result of eccentricity of character, than in any other profession or avocation

In teaching, as in any other profession, success can only be won by study and experience

No amount of native genius can ever alone qualify a man to fill well any position in life, which requires a frequent exercise of the mind

It is the province of genius, not to supply information but to ornament its use

The intelligence on which successful plans of action are to predicted, can only be secured by much patient and profound reflection, refined and verified by experience

Who would think of employing a surgeon to perform any delicate surgical operations unless that surgeon were understood to be thoroughly conversant with the anatomy and physiology of the human system, or how could the counsel be trusted with the advocacy of rights affecting life liberty or property, if he had not previously made himself familiar with all the intricate questions of law which might arrise in the complex relations of the case, or what confidence could the people repose in a law maker whom they might regard as ignorant of the fundamental law of his own country. But if a high degree of preparation is necessary to fit men for the proper discharge of duties pertaining only to temporal subjects, how much more thorough and exalted should be the qualifications of men and women who are to mould and fashion things not temporal only, but spiritual also, not alone to deal with the perishing portion of humanity, but also to give tone and character to that better part which is to govern not only the affairs of the present life, but to live for weal or woe throughout the ceaseless cycles of eternity. VIDI.

AN ESTATE WORTH $100 000,000—THE PROPERTY ENTAILED TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO—THE HEIRS ALL DESCENDANTS OF A RUNAWAY DAUGHTER WHO CAME TO AMERICA—LEEDS SINCE BUILT ON THE LAND

The New York Tribune of July 25th says:

About two hundred representatives of the Ingraham family in the United States met at the Astor House yesterday Among them were gentlemen and their wives from all parts of New York, Rhode Island, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois and California Mr W J P Ingraham of Philadelphia, President of the Ingraham Association, called the meeting to order, and made a verbal report of the action of the Executive Committee since their appointment in October last, showing that immediately after the October meeting, when the family empowered the Committee to act, they advertised in the Weekly Tribune, and other American journals of large circulation, offering $20 000 for the original will of Joseph Wilson, of Yorkshire England—a will which was supposed to be somewhere in America

The Committee ransacked the country for information, but with no one uraging result until January last, when they trusted it to two lawyers, but where the Committee do not say An interview was arranged, and in March last the custodians of this long lost and highly prized paper offered to surrender it for $10 000 in money and a tenth of the property which it devises The Committee rejected this proposition and others, but at length, in June last, they covenanted to pay for the will, as soon as it should be proved to their satisfaction to be genuine, $20 000 in money and $10,000 in the Ingraham Association's scrip The Committee have satisfied themselves that the descendants of Joseph Wilson can, if they choose, establish their claim by a civil action, but they deem it prudent to purchase the paper, which will give them a clear title to the property that they claim, since a lawsuit might be tedious and even more costly than the proceedings which are proposed

Mr Ingraham having concluded his remarks, Mr Van Dorn of Vermont, informed the meeting that he had made personal inquiries in the City of Leeds, and assured himself that all that the American claimants require is Joseph Cowell's will to establish their ownership of every rod of land whereon the city is built—every manufacturer and every householder there to this day being merely a tenant, paying ground rent to agents who assume to represent the lawful heirs, and the larger manufacturers being desirous of finding somebody who can sell and give them a perfect title to the lands on which all their lives they have been merely squatters. After remarks by several lawyers of the family, stock subscriptions were opened with a view of collecting the necessary $20,000 and before the adjournment the sum actually paid or pledged reached about $4,500 The family will meet again to-day, perhaps with recruits, and resume the subscriptions, and until these entire $20,000 has been obtained, or until it shall become necessary to pay out the money, the Executive Committee will deposit the Association's funds with the Life and Trust Company of this city.

This remarkable claim to lands which were bequeathed nearly 200 years ago, and on which an opulent and busy city of 200,000 population has been built, involves a love story which might form the thread of a readable romance The daughter of Joseph Wilson, a wealthy freeholder of proud descent, married, without her father's approval, Edward Cowell, a plebian of Yorkshire, and the young couple, removed by Wilson, emigrated to the American Colonies and cast their lot in Boston. In 1689 Wilson died, without, however, relenting toward his daughter, and when his last testament was opened it appeared that he had given his property, consisting of lands on the river Aire—about six miles in length by three in width—to his granddaughter, Sarah Cowell, entailing it, however, to the fourth generation. The will was sent to Sarah Cowell long before her marriage with Timothy Ingraham, and was handed over to her daughter, but the estate, being unsettled and yielding no revenue, and being, moreover, entailed to the descendants of heirs dwelling at a great distance, was left in the hands of agents and almost forgotten except by them At length a manufacturing town of considerable importance rose on the Wilson lands, and a grandson of the devisor made an attempt to recover the property, but he died on shipboard before reaching Engl and The next effort was made in 1803 by Capt Solomon Ingraham, a great grandson of the devisor. He was an East India Captain, and sailed with his wife from New York, taking all the papers relating to the estate These he entrusted to a Mr Erskine, of London, then an eminent lawyer, but afterwards Lord Chancellor of England Captain Ingraham having died at Madras, the papers were retained by Erskine in London, nobody making further inquiry touching the property until 1825, when the Ingraham family learned that London newspapers and advertisements seeking the heirs They then sent Isaac Smith to England to look up the estate, which was then reported to be worth more than £40,000 a year, He learned that the papers had been left by the first Lord Erskine to his son and successor, then Minister to Belgium, and that they were locked up in London Therefore, Smith returned unsuccessful, to America No further effort was made until 1852 when Gilbert R Gladding, of Providence, and Columbus Smith, of Vermont the latter a lawyer who had been eminently successful in prosecuting American claims to English estates, went to London and saw the late Lord Erskine, to whom the papers had fallen, but Lord Erskine was dallied with Messrs Gladding and Smith until, their funds failing, they were compelled to return to America Mr Gladding pursued his researches, and after scouring England in vain, died in Providence in the full belief that the will had been brought back to the United States and was somewhere to be found in this country Mr W J P Ingraham and others took the task in hand where Gladding left it and were, until recently, subjected to the scoffs of many incredulous heirs, but the amount cement of finding the will silenced cavil, and drew together the largest multitude of the heirs that ever assembled Mr Ingraham has no doubt whatever that the descendants of Sarah Cowell can recover this enormous property, which he estimates to be worth more than $100,000 000—exclusive of the back rents, for which they may not be worth the while to contend

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 26, 1867.

A New Poet in the Field.

It is gratifying to know that Oregon will not be compelled hereafter to rely on a foreign market for a supply of poetry. We shall soon have the native article in abundance, and there is a prospect that enough of the commodity will soon be manufactured in our own State, not only to supply the home demand, but also to furnish poetry for export. As chroniclers of the resources and progress of Oregon, we cannot omit to make mention of a late very important contribution in this line. A Coos county poet, who rejoices in the by no means ill-sounding name of Henry H. Woodward, has published his first volume. It contains eighteen pages and about as many "poems;" and is issued from a newspaper office in the southern part of the State. One of the papers published in that section speaks of it as merely introductory to a large volume from the same pen which is shortly to appear. These pieces, then, appear to be thrown out as an appetizer to prepare the public taste to enjoy the feast which is yet to come. Probably we are to understand that they are given to the world with something of the same spirit in which Byron's earliest efforts, the "Hours of Idleness," were published. In the "Pioneer's Offering, by Henry H. Woodward," is an adventure of this sort, and if the criticism it provokes is to be followed by a stinging satire on Webfoot Bards and their Reviewers, we shall try, with the rest, to bear our little share of the castigation,—provided our hard aces fit to include us among the victims of his lampoon. But at present our business is with the "Pioneer's Offering." The volume opens in the pretentious manner attributed by Horace to the cyclic bard, and in point of grandiloquence far surpasses the opening of the song of "Achilles' wrath," "Arms and the man," or any of the so-called models of the uncultivated ages. The first piece is a no less lofty effort than an Ode to the Sun; and of course for elevation of thought and dignity of sentiment it must stand among the first of our author's productions. Take the first line:

"... clous orb, refulgent bright,"

with the rules of the excessive splendor which such word painting must suggest, and try, if the act is not lamed presumptuous, to complete the stanza in language equally elevated as to thought and equally precise in meaning. Of course the common reader must fail, and our author's genius must be called on to finish the task:

"... ch refulgent bright,
Th... beauties all in beauties right,
What would earth be without thy rays?
[illegible] man and miseries days.

But as extraordinary as it is, is but a very common effort on the part of our poet. His book teems with passages fully equal to the one just cited. What Wordsworth calls "the vision and the faculty divine" appears in a still more striking manner in the following stanza from the same ode:

"Thou [illegible] clouds;
Through [illegible] for all, nor shrouds,
Majestic [illegible] roll
And [illegible] either pole.

Who can read such lines without feeling the true poetic rapture? True poetry has that in it which is above all rules, which defies exact definitions, but which makes itself felt unmistakably in every [illegible] the soul [illegible] with the stanza just cited; we feel that there is something in it which is absolutely [illegible] of criticism. Will any envious critic or rival dare but be so ungracious as to insinuate that a want of sense and meaning in the expressions given as the principal cause of the exclamations in them of that indescribable something which he cannot put his finger on? Probably; for there will always have its detractors.

Take a "Sea Song" we take the following:

"The sun did sparkle on the winds were high,
The shipping [illegible] and sea mews cry,
Our gallant [illegible] merrily sail,
We were close reefed for the coming gale.

The blasts they swung a fearful force,
To rent in pieces [illegible] course;
The foremost [illegible] by the board
And passengers [illegible] to the Lord.

We forbear to cite the [illegible] remarks upon these stanzas. We give them a place simply for the sake of exhibiting specimens of our poet's varied style. In order to know further what a variety of [illegible] he possesses, we will cite some lines of a "[illegible]" to which he gives the title of "Death;" and which he appears to have written, as Young wrote, "to rail, his griefs and steal his heart to [illegible]":

"The ball tolled in solemn tones [illegible] the air,
And [illegible] in a rally by the side of the bier,
Their [illegible] were met with the tears that they shed,
They wept in deep sorrow for their kindred was dead.
[illegible] stands and [illegible] but one aim doth he take,
To strike to the [illegible] the plow and rake.
[illegible] to [illegible] subtle and slow,
And [illegible] to [illegible] and foe.
[illegible] of [illegible] death [illegible] no mercy,
He moves with his [illegible] and spares not any.

We have not room so far further extracts. Our object has been simply to give a few specimens from the introductory "offering," with a view of preparing the public mind for the larger work, which it is understood may be expected soon. It is extremely fortunate that Ross Browne is in Oregon at the present time, collecting information in regard to the resources of the State, as this new and important "resource" will hardly escape his notice.

Of course the person who writes such stuff as we have published specimens of, is not conscious of his own position. But he is not insane, as some may suppose. He is one of a great class of persons who, though possessed of common sense upon most matters, are foolish enough to believe they can write "poetry." Every year we receive reams of such stuff as the above, and every editor knows what it is to be bored, first with the "poetry" and next with letters indignantly demanding to know why it has not been published. If this whole class of writers would follow Mr. Woodward's example and print their "effusions" at their own expense and without troubling anybody with them, the whole editorial profession would have reason for permanent rejoicing.

Stump Harping, Etc.—The Copperhead papers never tire of repeating the statement that Mr. Flanders, delegate to Congress from Washington Territory, declared in Walla Walla that he would not accept the office for which he was a candidate, if elected by negro votes. We once before noticed this statement and said that Mr. Flanders never made any such declaration. And we now repeat what we said before on the subject, and give Mr. Flanders himself as our authority. We heard a positive denial of the statement from his own lips, and it was his denial which led us to publish the contradiction that appeared in this paper some time ago. Once for all we therefore pronounce this story which the Copperhead papers are making so much of, to be entirely without foundation, and this we do on authority of Mr. Flanders himself. That gentleman explained in our hearing the circumstances which he supposed gave rise to the report. Late in the day at Walla Walla, just before the time for closing the polls, a well known colored man of that place was going up to offer his vote. Mr. Flanders knew that the appearance of the colored man at the polls would cause wrangling and delay, and being anxious to secure the votes of two or three of his friends who had just arrived by the stage from above, advised his friends to have the colored man withdrawn, as the time for closing the polls was just at hand. The colored man withdrew accordingly, and gave opportunity for those who had just arrived, to vote. This, Mr. Flanders stated, was the full extent of his declining negro votes at Walla Walla on election day. Like any sensible man, who happens to be engaged in a close contest, he had no thought of declining any means of assistance that was offered him. He would have been as far as his Democratic competitor from refusing the help of negro votes.

A New Trouble.

A greater amount of wool is grown in Ohio than in any other State in the Union. Men of both political parties in that State are therefore largely engaged in its production and manufacture. But the Republican party is the party which has given the country the protective system—the system which has built up the interests of the wool-growers, made sheep-husbandry profitable, saved manufacturers from the ruinous consequences of competition with the cheap labor of foreign countries and fully established this great and growing industry in the United States. The Democratic party has always been hostile to the protective system, and would now, if it had the power, abolish it entirely. But it happens that in Ohio there are many Democrats who are directly interested in maintaining it, and who are grumbling in a most threatening manner because of the hostility of their party to a policy which so greatly fosters their interests and so largely contributes to their wealth. They have found by experience that protection is absolutely essential to their prosperity, and as a natural consequence do not like the continued opposition of the leaders of their party to that system. Some of them have gone so far as to demand that the Democratic party shall change its policy in this respect, and in case it refuses to make concessions, have threatened to vote with the Republicans. The New York World scents the danger, and fearing that the Democratic party will be frightened into an abandonment of free trade principles, makes an earnest appeal against any concession:

> Democrats of Ohio! what price can you afford to pay this shopkeeper for their votes? Not the price of all your future. Better lose this election, and the next, and the next. You cannot compete as protectionists with Republicans.

The state of things that calls for such an appeal from such a quarter shows that there is anything but perfect unanimity in the Democratic party. And the fact that the Democratic wool growers are looking to the Republican party for support is an indication of the correctness of the position held by the Republicans on this important question. The industrial classes have discernment enough to perceive which party is the promoter and conservator of their interests, and which party is opposed to the policy which builds up the industries of the country.

Indian Reservations.—The Commissioner of the General Land Office has instructed the Surveyor General of Idaho to lay down upon the connected map of his surveying district, and protect from interference, Indian reservations as follows: 1. The reservation for the Coure d' Alenes and other Indians, situated in the northern part of the Territory, adjoining the western boundary and containing 250,000 acres. 2. The reservation for the Boise and Bruneau bands of Shoshones, in Southern Idaho, south of the Snake and Blackfoot rivers, embracing Fort Hall within its limits, and containing about 180,000 acres.

Col. Wilbur F. Sanders has been nominated by the Republicans of Montana for delegate to Congress. The campaign is being prosecuted with vigor, and the Republican papers of the Territory have hopes of their candidate's election. The probability is, however, that they will be disappointed, as Montana is a general asylum for outlaws, roughs and rebel banditti, all of whom regularly vote the Democratic ticket.

STATE ITEMS.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has received reports showing that in May last, the disposal of public land in Oregon was as follows: At the land office at Oregon City, 9,261 acres; at Roseburg, 9,104 acres.

A letter written at Express Ranch, Burnt river, Aug. 10th, says: Yesterday morning two Frenchmen while going from Burnt river to Rye Valley with two four horse teams, were attacked by three men, and robbed of four of their horses, a watch, one dollar in money, a revolver, and double-barreled shot gun. After helping themselves to what they wanted, they bound the two Frenchmen hand and foot, and told them to be quiet and they should not be hurt.

A Eugene paper relates the following: Last week an occurrence happened near this city, the like we hope we shall not be called upon again to chronicle. A young man had spoken slightingly of a young lady of the highest respectability. She heard of the circumstances, and mounted her pony to chastise the slanderer. She found him, and while inflicting the punishment he so justly deserved, fell from her horse and was slightly injured. We withhold names out of respect to one of the parties.

The telegraph some days ago advised us of the death, by accidental shooting, of Thomas Driskel near Eugene City. The State Journal gives the following particulars: He went out on Friday to look after some bees, and did not return at night, but nothing was thought of the circumstance at that time. On Saturday, his family beginning to feel anxious in regard to his absence started out to find him. He was discovered lying near a thicket, having been shot in the head. It is supposed he left his gun in the brush while searching for bees; in attempting to take it up again, he caught hold of the barrel, and the hammer coming in contact with some limbs, fired the gun, causing instant death.

The Record says: A son of William Mason, of Monmouth, Polk county, named Benjamin Mason, about 10 years of age, was drowned while in swimming in the Willamette river at Independence, last Wednesday evening. He remarked to another young man who was swimming with him, that he didn't believe he could make it, and was told by his friend to put his hand on his shoulders, which he did for a little while, but suddenly let go and sank out of sight, and was not seen afterward. Benjamin was the youngest of four brothers, the eldest of whom was killed in June at the raising of the Eola bridge. The family are very much distressed at this double affliction. We learn these particulars from Mr. Wm. Murphy, of this place.

A friend from Salem Saturday evening says, the buildings are rapidly completing the several brick and other buildings, begun early in the season. Among the buildings soon to complete are Starkey's brick block, Parrish & Yeaton's brick store, Durbin's fire-proof stables, two other bricks, the new college, Presbyterian Church and several new frames in South Salem, making in all quite a large addition to the number of stores and dwellings this summer. He says the Western Hotel—a new one—is doing a fine business. Mr. G. W. Bissett, proprietor from Rock Island, Ill., has the control, and as he is used to the landing many have taken the trouble to drop in and see how a States hotel is kept and all agree that he does it up brown.

The Roseburg paper publishes the following: The Coquille river is navigable for vessels of 200 tons for fifty miles, to the forks, and the tide water for 65 miles. The entrance of the river is one of the best; being perfectly protected against the south storms, it has only a temporary bar of quicksand lodged in the channel by the action of the N. W. wind during the summer season, when from August to October at the lowest ebb the average of the water on the bar is 9 feet. Some years exceptionally lower. The channel at the outlet can never materially differ in the direction of its course into the ocean, owing to the peculiar formation of the bedrock, the reefs and rocks on the south side and a rock on the north side of the channel. The bar of quicksand has been found in different years from the length of a ship to quite eighth of a mile. From November to June, for eight months, vessels of 600 tons can not only enter the river, but pass up forty-four miles.

The Roseburg Ensign says: We have just had a conversation with Louis Balfion, an experienced quartz miner, who has recently been on a prospecting expedition east of here. He found, about ninety miles from this place, a mineral district in every particular so nearly resembling the Arizona silver belt as to lead him to believe that it is a continuation of the same. He and others have discovered one ledge which is undoubtedly rich in silver, some pieces assaying an average of over $500 to the ton, and the richer pieces which they have dug out yield double that quantity. All this is nearly from the surface. When this ledge, which is already claimed so far as any trace of it is yet discovered, becomes fully developed, we expect to hear a very favorable account of it. From the appearance and weight of the ore which we have been shown, and from the partial assays which have been made, there is, we think, sufficient evidence on which to venture the prediction that ere long this district will open out one of the richest silver regions of the west.

The Irish News Supports Gorham.—The Irish News, published at San Francisco, has hoisted the Union ticket and makes an appeal to Irishmen to come out from the Democratic party. It says:

> What is the Democratic party? From their regard for the Irish vote it would seem to be a self-constituted committee, whose main object is to entrap and cajole the Irish people—telling them that the Democratic party is the true and only friend the Irish people have in America, and that the Irish are sure to get all the constableships in the country, if they vote for the Democratic ticket. And what else did they get from that party but the most subordinate positions? True, virtuous, loyal, honest Democracy, is dead, very dead. That which is so called now, is parent to the rebel spirit that fired upon Fort Sumter, that dishonored the National Flag upon the walls of that fort, and that helped Jeff. Davis to keep up a war upon the Union for four years, so as to break it up; and after they were defeated, and before, those rebellious spirits have scattered over the land like fire drops from a bursting rocket, have become Copperheads of the worst type, they hate everything Union and loyal, oppose reconstruction and order, and seem to make a special point to catch Irish votes, so as to keep the party from lying out entirely, and giving up the ghost. Irishmen of California, are you willing to become the cats'-paw, the subservient tools, and link your destiny with such a mass of treason and political putrefaction as this? Every consideration of good for yourselves and respect for the land of your adoption, demand of you that you do not.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO AUGUST 23.

Washington News.

New York, Aug 20—The Herald's special has good authority for the statement that Seward will soon be requested to resign.

The Tribune's special says it is now a settled fact that Gen. Howard will soon be relieved from his position as Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau. Grant opposes the step, and Grant's friends assert that his letters to the President protesting against the removal of Stanton and Sheridan are radical and decided. The President is understood to have said he would accept the resignations of McCulloch, Welles and Randall. He is said to make a new deal and have fresh cards for the remainder of his term.

A correspondent says he has semi-official authority that Adams, Bingham, Gov. Andrews, Senator Sherman, Dixon and Fessenden are all mentioned in connection with Cabinet appointments. The work of changing the Southern Generals is not in harmony with these suggestions. The President will persevere. Sickles will probably be sent to New Mexico and Pope returned to the Sioux country. Meade will probably succeed Sickles and Halleck take the place of Pope.

The Times' special dispatch from Washington says the report that Thomas has started for New Orleans is probably incorrect. The Medical Director of the Department says Thomas' health is quite poor and his transfer to New Orleans at present would be perilous. It is known the President has repeatedly urged Thomas to take Sheridan's place to which the General felt himself unfitted, at the same time expressing a hope that Sheridan would be continued in that command.

The Turkish Minister was formerly presented to-day.

A Rebel on Constitutional Rights.

Richmond, Aug 22.—Gov Wise made a speech to-day, declaring that the test oath is unconstitutional. He appealed to the white masses of the North against the efforts to make the white freemen of the South subject to the domination of black freedmen.

He said the interest on bonds must be reduced to avoid dishonor and save the reputation of the country.

Sheridan's Department—Mexican Affairs.

Washington, Aug 23.—Sheridan telegraphs that the yellow fever has assumed an epidemic form at New Orleans. Several of his officers are sick, and he asks that additional nurses be employed.

The Austrian steamer Elizabeth with Admiral Lagetthoff has sailed for Vera Cruz.

Some radical German American citizens presented an address to Romero to-day for Juarez, expressing their approbation at his course during the recent struggle and congratulating him upon his success.

All the volunteer surgeons except one are mustered out of service.

The Late Action at Formosa.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The navy department has received a dispatch detailing late events at Formosa. Admiral Bell writes from Shanghai, 10th, that he left Shanghai, June 7th, in the Hartford, accompanied by the Wyoming. The party which landed consisted of 118 sailors and marines, armed with muskets and rifles, with four days' rations. They landed off the bay at the southeast end of Formosa, at 9.30, under Commander Belknap, of the Hartford. Lieutenant McKenzie, second in command. The savages were seen assembling on the hills two miles distant, armed with muskets. They were visible most of the day, and displayed courage and stratagem equal to American Indians. They kept behind cover, frequently loading our men into ambush. One detachment pursued them out of the sight of the ships until 2 P. M., when they halted to rest, and the savages crept upon wood on the party which was commanded by Mr. Keurle, who, placing himself at the head of the company daringly led the charge into the ambush and fell mortally wounded. He died before reaching the ships. Several officers and men had already experienced severe sun strokes, and being generally exhausted, Commander Belknap reluctantly ordered, executing the march under the heat of a sun ninety-two degrees. Ten casualties reported are one killed and fourteen sun struck—four dangerously. No troops unaccustomed to bush life ever displayed greater spirit, apparently. Sailors are not adapted to this kind of warfare against the skillfull enemy, and it was determined not to land them again, and the party returned to Shanghai. The Admiral says the only effectual remedy against these savages is for the Chinese authorities on the island to occupy this bay with settlements of their own, protected by the military, which may be effected through our Minister at Pekin.

Lieut. McKenzie was buried with prescribed honors in the garden of the British Consul at Hakow.

The reports of the other officers are appended, but they contain little not already published in detailed accounts.

Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of him, although inquiries had been made in every direction. He was supposed to have had considerable money in his possession.

Hon. H. M. Stewart and J. G. McCullum will address the Union voters of the 11th ward this evening at the Constitutional Hall, Sixteenth street, near Valencia street.

The National Republicans held a mass meeting last evening in Platt's Hall, to ratify their Legislative and County ticket. A very large audience was assembled to hear the speakers. Thomas Campbell at the close of his speech, said he would never directly or indirectly help Haight to be Governor, and should therefore on political principles and none other, vote for Gorham.

Oakley Fay appeared and was received with applause, and he said the hour was too late then to address them at length; he should reserve the remarks he had to make for some future occasion.

The clipper ship David Crockett cleared for New York this morning with a large and valuable cargo of California produce, including 1,250 tons wheat, 400 tons flour, 400 tons bran, 6,3 tons wool, 2,865 hides and 122 tons ore.

Stockton, Aug 23.—A dreadful accident occurred last evening in this city in a man named P. Riley, who was instantly killed by a fall from a loaded wagon. The wheels passed over his body. He was endeavoring to pass another team when the horses became unmanageable. He leaves a family.

The steamship Golden Age from Panama, arrived at 6 o'clock this evening.

San Francisco, Aug 24.—Henry Dunsmuir has commenced suit in the Fifteenth District Court against the Panama Mail Steamship Company for the recovery of $1,000 damages for an alleged breach of freight contract. Plaintiff alleges that he shipped a quantity of property from Sheffield, England for Victoria, V. I., but that the defendants abandoned it in this city, depriving him of the possession and use of it for over a year.

Yesterday afternoon, Edward Maundry, employed in the office of Francis Valentine, had his left hand caught between the cog-wheels of a cylinder press, and all the fingers and thumb of the hand crushed in a most shocking manner. There are hopes that his hand will not be entirely crippled.

Rufus P. Wedgewood, Charles P. Damon, Andrew C. Hammond, Jr., of Massachusetts, Mary McIlvney and Jno. Sheehan, natives of Ireland, Kessan Levison, of Poland, and Conrad Leamin, natives of Germany, were ordered to Stockton Asylum last evening, on a charge of insanity.

The British ship Blackwall, now in this port, took fire at one o'clock this morning, and was considerably damaged.

Messrs. Goodwin & Co., furniture dealers, have purchased the Academy of Music and the old engine house adjoining it, for the sum of $50,000. They intend to transform both buildings into furniture, ware and sale houses, and will commence altering and refitting them immediately upon receiving possession.

There was a good audience last evening at the Academy of Music, to hear T. G. Phelps, the Union candidate for Congress, express his views on the political topics of the day.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer Costa Rica arrived at Hong-Kong June 25th. She will run between Shanghai and Yokohama.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Officer Shiffer yesterday evening arrested John Harrison, charged with robbing Jos. Fenton, on the steamer Capitol, of $400 on her up trip Friday. Benton, it appears, had paid Harrison's passage up the river, and occupied the same stateroom. Before reaching Benicia he managed to despoil his benefactor of the money and some valuables besides, and returned to the city from Benicia. Two hundred dollars of the money have been recovered from Harrison who is now taking limited views of life behind the bars of a station house.

The steamer Active, O. H Windsor, commander, arrived yesterday from Victoria, British Columbia. She reports the forests on fire in a number of places below the mouth of the Columbia river, obscuring the whole coast.

The Governor is a man of commanding appearance, excellent oratorial powers and good voice. SECOND STREET IMPROVEMENT.—A correspondent who is interested only as every citizen and tax-payor of the city is, gives his views in relation to the Second Street improvement, as follows

"In the first place, the improvement of Second street from Morrison to Madison, in manner like that of Madison, was asked for by the holders of the property adjoining and which would be taxed for the improvement. Mr Hallock, in the Council, moved an amendment to the notice proposed, changing the manner of improvement to part plank and part gravel, an invention of Hallock's for which he ought by all means to enter a caveat for letters patent, for the like was never heard of before and never will be again But end—The notice for this improvement specified that the planks would be required to be fourteen feet in length. The ordinance does not follow the terms of the notice; but provides for laying down planks sixteen feet in length Now, if the Common Council can make a change of two feet, without notice, or consultation with the property holders, they can as well provide that the planks shall extend the entire width of the street; or that they need be no more than four feet in length; or that the whole street shall be doubled, or that it may be covered with carduroy Can the Council without being petitioned thereto, legally pass an ordinance for street improvement whose terms totally or in part, disregard the notice for such improvement I certainly not, by the terms of the charter. In this case there was no petition for such departure from the terms of the notice. Is not our "retrenchment and reform" Council taking direct steps to involve the city in litigation? It appears so to me Finally, the holders of over two-thirds of the property on the street signed a remonstrance against the proposed improvement as specified in the notice, but not being presented within the technical time provided by law, it was not received by the Auditor. It is apparent to me that the Council has not followed the letter of the law, and it is equally palpable that it has grossly violated the will of the property holders on the street Should the city be subjected to cost and damages by this illegal manner of forcing upon the property holders, an odious kind of improvement, the injured taxpayers will know exactly where to place the responsibility."

A CELEBRATED BILL.—The Victoria Colonist of the 22d inst., has the following mention of a young man some time since connected with the Pioneer—German newspaper of this city—somewhat to the detriment of the proprietors, as we heard about the time he went away:

"A young Prussian named C F Schlesinger, from Portland, Oregon, yesterday presented a check for $500, purporting to be signed by the wholesale firm of Julius Grunbaum & Co., Wharf street, at the Bank of British North America. The check was paid by the teller shortly after Schlesinger had left the bank, Mr. Grunbaum came in to have his bank book written up, which, being done, he observed the $500 entry. The check was produced and at once pronounced a forgery, although cleverly done. The police were at once notified and he was tracked to Wilson's clothing store, where he had purchased $45 worth of clothing, a few minutes before. It was subsequently ascertained that the required passage in the Sitka steamer's boat for Washington Territory but after selling a short distance asked to be put ashore again; his request was complied with and he disappeared in the direction of Esquimalt. Parties were out all last night searching for Schlesinger, who is a short spare man, wears gold spectacles and speaks broken English. He has been in town about four weeks, during which time, he ingratiated himself into the confidence of Mr. Grunbaum and others, by professing to be connected with a German paper at Salem, for which he collected sums of money for subscriptions. Mr. Fearkes, on behalf of the bank, offers $100 for his arrest."

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Orizaba, Francis Connor, commander, sailed for San Francisco, at 9 A. M. yesterday with the following passengers:

Gen. J. C. Davis, J. W. Ladd and Wife, Col. George H. Weeks, Rev. Bishop Thompson and wife, Capt. W. Margo, Lieut. Behnsen, Mrs. C. A. Wood, Gen. W. H. French, Mrs Loring, J. Ross Browne, Maj. J. H. Magelle and son, Dr. D. B. Baker and wife, E. Mayer, Mrs. M. Keith and six children, G. T. Hopkins, Gilbert, Walker & Crawford and wife, J. W. Gilbert, W. Carrier, Monroe, Thomas Lloyd, Thos. B. Harner, Rev. Father Grasse, J. E. Bent, key, Capt. Wade, Benj. Norden, John Wright, Col. West (W. F. & Co.'s Messenger) and 25 others.

FRAUDS IN THE WOOL TRADE.—The last number of the Enterprise has an article, revealing some very disreputable practices on the part of wool traders in Oregon. We believe the Enterprise is mistaken in attributing the frauds to the farmers; it is more likely that some of the intermediate sellers are the guilty parties The Enterprise says: "A system of frauds practiced by wool growers upon buyers in California, has just come to light. The buyers found themselves victimized, but could not tell why; finally they have learned that the fleeces were sprinkled with water. In some cases it amounted to a loss of from 7 to 13 per cent. The sell of this fraud does not end, however, by loss of weight, as the water, in connection with the natural grease, causes fermentation, which injures strength of staple and causes it to be black instead of white, so that it can only be used for dark colored and inferior grades of goods. It is very certain that if the practice is continued, it will destroy the reputation of the entire wool crop of that State Oregon wool has been found to obtain steeper, and such like adulterations to defraud IF proved in, the matter will return in loss account to the wool growers. It is not always that Oregon wool is inspected in San Francisco, and we should hate to see the clip of the State thrown out of the Atlantic market on account of such tricks. If farmers think they are not getting enough for wool, let them decline to sell it, but always keep it pure and unadulterated."

FROM CANYON CITY.—Mr F. Adams from Canyon City, from whom we frequently receive news favors, arrived in this city on Friday evening, and during yesterday furnished us with some items from that country. He says that on the 19th, the Snake Indians visited Canon Creek and stole a lot of stock. On their way south from that point they stole some horses from the neighborhood of the North Fork of John Day river. A party of whites shortly pursued the thieving raiders, overtook them on the head of Burnt river and recovered the stolen property. The Indians, however, escaped.....A prospecting party of sixteen started on the 21st for a tour on the head waters of Crooked river The mines about Canyon City are yielding quite as richly as ever before, and there are several instances in which large strikes have been made.....The farming prospects are unusually good. The amount of grain harvested is much greater than on any previous year.....On Friday, the 16th, Mr. T. U. Hyde shot himself through the shoulder accidentally, while out hunting. His injuries were severe but not considered dangerous

FROM ASTORIA.—A friend from Astoria who nearly always has an item for us, called in yesterday and when we enquired as usual, whether he as usual had an item, he replied. "Well, we Astorians don't have much material out of which to manufacture items; but, the Congregational Church"—here our informant smiled significantly and began to slide out. We understood that smile; the potad is that the Congregational church has furnished, at one time and another, the losse of about fifty items for the newspaper hereabouts. Just as our friend was about to disappear, however, with his phiz all over smile, we called him back to learn, "what about that Congregational church?" "Well," said he, "the carpenter work is done and the building is now ready for the plasterers." Good. Anything else? "Well, I had another item," said he, "but somehow that Congregational church got into my head and crowded t'other item out. Fact is, that church is a big thing with us; we dote on it, we fall back on it; that's what's the matter."

FREIGHT FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The Griffiaine took the following freight, yesterday: 5,000 sacks flour, 145 kegs butter, 66 cases bacon, 143 gunnies bacon, 150 bbl bbls dried apples, 28 boxes apples, 55 cases turpentine, 100 bbls bacon, 100 bbl bbls bending, 250 bundles staves, 191 bbls salmon, 25 bbl bbls salmon, 76 hides, 10 rolls leather, 2 bbls currants, 2 cases glass, 12 stoves, 15 bxs eggs, 11 sacks peaches, 7 coops chickens, 21 bales wool, 7 bundles steel, 4 cases tobacco, 17 horses, 1 steer, "Oregon Baby," 13 cases mdse, 8 bales mdse, 3 trunks mdse, 3 pkgs furs, 10 pkgs mdse

FROM ST. HELENS.—A gentleman from St Helens informs us that Messrs. Abbott & Co. will, to-day, commence the construction of a very large wharf adjoining their mill It is to be about one hundred feet in breadth and between five and six hundred feet in length .. The project, for some time agitated, of a road from St Helens to Tualitin Plains, has about fallen through. Several public meetings have been held to consider the matter, but nothing practical has ever been done and nothing is likely to be done.

FIRE ALARM.—Just at dusk last evening, a window curtain in Arrigoni's hotel caught fire and created a momentary alarm among the inmates The curtain and shade were promptly pulled down and the fire was extinguished; but not till the alarm was communicated to the outside The bells were rung and the fire companies generally turned out, but happily, their services were not required. It has been so long since we had a fire alarm, that the ringing of the bells called out an immense crowd

ABOUT TO RETIRE.—Mr. H G. Struve, editor of the Vancouver Register has announced his intention of retiring from the editorial charge of the paper at the end of the present volume, which will be reached on the 14th of September. The stockholders in the concern have appointed a committee, consisting of H K Hines, L. Farnsworth and David Wall, "to enter into correspondence with parties and receive proposals for the continued publication."

STILL FLEEING TO THE MOUNTAINS.—Mt Hood is in a very fair way to have an unusually social time of it this season. Another party, consisting of Messrs. F. A. Clarke, Cline, Daly and George Hansell, started on Saturday morning, to pay the hoary old mole-hill a visit. They propose to see something while making the trip, and when they get back, to tell what they have seen.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—On Saturday the Senator brought down from Oregon City, 1,030 sacks flour, 32 sacks feed, 50 bbl bbls huptor, 15 rolls leather, 28 boxes apples, 17 bales woolen goods, 1 coop chickens and 1 bale flocks.

THE BARK RIVAL.—The steamer Ranger, Capt. Fisher, on Saturday towed the bark Rival to Astoria. The latter was heavily loaded with lumber taken on at Oak Point for San Francisco She went to sea immediately.

ROUGH JOKE ON THE BOYS.—When the Fanny Troup left here on Saturday, it is said she landed just below the Bone Yard, near where a half dozen boys were bathing, and a man went ashore, gathered up all the boys clothing and returned to the boat, when she backed out and went on. Most of the boys procured other clothing through the services of their friends Two of them however, were compelled to remain till after dark, being unable, for that time, to let their folks at home know what had happened.

LAST NIGHT OF THE OPERA.—The Bianchi troupe will appear at Ore Finn Hall to-morrow evening, for the last time in Portland The performance will include Verdi's grand opera, La Traviata or Camille by the troupe, Il Bacio, by Signorina Bellini, and Vive l'America by Signor Bianchi. These compositions are all celebrated The admirers of the opera will, of course, attend on this occasion, as it will be the last opportunity, it may be for years, of hearing anything of the kind in this city

"OREGON RUBY."—This monster ox was shipped yesterday on board the Orgflamme, for San Francisco. He will be exhibited till the conclusion of the State Fair, and then it is the intention of the owner to butcher or sell him

PROCEEDINGS DISMISSED.—On the motion of the City Attorney, on Saturday, the petition for mandamus in the case of The City of Portland vs H L Hoyt was dismissed, without prejudice to the rights of parties.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—The auction sale by Richardson, on Saturday, of the goods seized upon execution against H. H Snow, went off rather lively The aggregate amount realized was near $7,000 in legal tenders

DUST IN PRIVATE HANDS.—The Mountaineer of Saturday says: "Two hundred pounds of gold dust was brought down from Canyon on the stage, by passengers last Thursday"

HELD TO BAIL FOR GAMBLING.—In the Recorder's Court, on Saturday, a Chinaman named Ah Long was held to bail in the sum of $200, on the charge of gambling

SICKNESS.—We learn that at Oregon City considerable sickness is prevailing, much of it in consequence of the injudicious use of unripe fruit.

TREASURY SHIPMENT.—Wells, Fargo & Co shipped by the steamship Orizaba, yesterday, $140,000 for San Francisco.

THE FIDELITER.—The steamship Fidelister arrived from Victoria, yesterday morning. She brings no files of papers.

SWAN ISLAND BAR.—Operations with the dredger, on Swan Island Bar, will be commenced to-day.

BARMAN BROS., on corner Front and Morrison streets, have already introduced the Fall and Winter styles of Custom-made Clothing and at 35 per cent less than they were sold the season of 1866.

PERFECTLY ENRAPTURING.—Such were our feelings as we stepped into the Music and Art Gallery of W. T. SHANAHAN, on First street, a few days since, and listened to the delightful tones and harmony which came from one of Mason & Hamlin's Cabinet Organs. From the soft breathing flute tones to the thundering bass of the pipe organ, all was equally free and sweet. And why is it other makers cannot produce instruments like these? Mason & Hamlin were the first to introduce the Cabinet Organ, and have gained such world-wide notoriety that it requires the work of two large factories to supply the demand for these valuable instruments.

THE RUSH FOR THE FAMILY DYE COLORS of Howe & Stevens is as great as ever. Once introduced to a family or neighborhood, and they spread like wildfire The truth is, they are so nice to have about the house that every prudent and sensible matron will have them Howe & Stevens employ some one hundred hands to keep up to orders —Sold by Smith & Davis.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

Travelers are always liable to sudden attacks of dysentery and cholera morbus, and those occurring when absent from home are very unpleasant. PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER may always be relied upon in such cases. As soon as you feel the symptoms, take one teaspoonful in a gill of new milk and molasses, and a gill of hot water. Sit all together and drink hot. Repeat the dose every hour until relieved. If the pains be severe, bathe the bowels and back with the medicine, also.

Fishermen, so often exposed to hurts by having their skin pierced with hooks and fins of fish, can be much relieved by bathing with a little Pain Killer as soon as the accident occurs; in this way the anguish is soon abated; bathe as often as once in five minutes, say three or four times, and you will seldom have any trouble. Sold by dealers everywhere

MANHOOD AND YOUTHFUL VIGOR are regained by HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, painting upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

PRICES REDUCED!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the

STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fevers. Fortifies the System again at Miasma and the effects of unwholesome water. Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels,

Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness,

Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or

PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical elements; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of indigestion Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day

To-Day and To-Morrow.

Small need have those who love Romance
On battle-fields to court her,
Where cannons boom, where chargers prance,
The route to strife are shorter,
Each man that earns his daily bread
Has enemies past number,
Hope's dying wailings, crushed or dead,
The onward march encumber.
Still bravely join Life's dizzy fray,
And sternly cope with Sorrow,
The man that bears his cross to-day
Will have a chance to-morrow

Hopes, fears, desires, in myriads crowd,
Our mortal pathway over,
The spirit's pure perceptions cloud
And clog sublime endeavor,
Grief, shame, remorse and fierce despair
Bring helpless to confound us—
Such are the dangers we must dare!
Such are the spoils around us!
Yet lift thy shield with courage gay,
And heed thy lance at Sorrow,
The man who steels his nerves to-day
Can face his foe to-morrow

Steer, pilot, for some glorious end
Though late in port arriving,
Heaven's grace, like manna, will descend,
And sanctify thy striving;
Good, for the life, resolve to do,
And Evil shall avoid thee;
Doubt may have made thy pulse untrue—
Faith may have sober employed thee—
Quash out these attributes of Clay!
Stand on the nook of Sorrow!
The man that perseveres to-day
May be a Prince to-morrow!

Stories of the Bench and Bar.

Bigelow, in the "Bench and Bar," collates the anecdotes told of (or by) the Chief Justices of the United States and leading American lawyers. We copy some of his stories:

THOMAS CORWIN.

It will be remembered that Corwin, in the Senate in 1845 or 1846, arguing seriously against the morality of the projected war against Mexico, permitted his appreciation of broad humor to lead him into the extravagant expression: "If I were a Mexican, as I am an American, I would welcome you with bloody hands to hospitable graves." A few years after, when this expression had been quoted by the newspapers until it had become familiar as "household words," Corwin was retained as counsel for a man charged with murder, and who, he claimed, acted in self-defense. In his closing speech to the jury Corwin pictured the condition of his client as endeavoring to avoid the difficulty, portrayed the murdered man as forcing it upon him, dogging his steps, denouncing him as a coward, and at last threatening to strike him. "What," he exclaimed, "would you have done in such an emergency? What, sir," turning to the prosecuting attorney, "would you have done?"

"Done?" replied the attorney, with great gravity, "done! I would have welcomed him with bloody hands to a hospitable grave."

The jury was convulsed with laughter, and Corwin lost his case.

JAMES T. BRADY.

On one occasion James T. Brady had a case so very large that he gave his client to understand that it could not be gained. The client insisted on trying it, and Brady devoted his best talent to making the best show he could. The case was ably put on the other side, and was so plain that the Judge, who had made up his mind, rather indicated it by several rulings entirely favorable to the opposite side. Brady was seeking for an opportunity for covering his retreat from untenable positions, and on a ruling of the Judge highly favorable to his opponent, he blandly inquired:

"May it please your Honor, who's engaged on the other side of this case besides the Judge?"

JUDGE BRADY.

The greatest charm of Judge John R. Brady's best charges lay in the opening sentence. Smith and Jones were fighting (at mere praise) over the value of a certain schooner sold by the one to the other and used for carrying sand from the Jersey flats. Smith swore that a sounder and more seaworthy vessel had not existed since the days of the Armada—that every spar, timber and rope was perfect, and that he would have had no hesitation in crossing the Atlantic in her in an equinoctial gale. Jones swore that there was not one timber, spar or rope but was so rotton as to be picked to pieces with the fingers, and that he would not have crossed the North river in her from Port Washington to Guttenberg on a calm day in consideration of an interest in Johnstown. When the Judge came to charge the jury, his opening sentence was: "Gentlemen of the jury, upon examination I have no occasion to assist your deliberations. You know anything in this world, it is the sense and value of the boat!" Perhaps they did, though they "smiled audibly," as if they did not, at every rate, they disagreed, and the precise money value of the sand schooner probably remains to be determined to this day.

BEN WADE AND JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS.

Benjamin F. Wade and the late Joshua R. Giddings were the constant competitors at the bar in old Ashtabula," their place of residence for the early part of his practice Wade was defending a suit against an action for slander, and after he had concluded a very effective speech to the jury he awkwardly leaning backward, his feet on the counsel table and facing Giddings, who was attempting to be eloquent in behalf of his client—at about the "old Gid," as he was familiarly called knew a little smattering of Shakspeare, and now determined during that great author to his aid

"Gentlemen of the jury," said he, with much ardor

He that steals my purse, steals trash;
But he that robs me of my good name—"

(Ahem

At this point, to his great discomfiture, Shakspeare deserted him. He repeated:

But he that robs me of my good name"

Another pause.)

Takes that I never had," whispered Wade, as if perchance he might hear, and so distinctly as to be heard by all in the room.

Amid the laughter and his own confusion, Giddings brought his speech to such a "lame and impotent conclusion" that his client recovered but six and a quarter cents for his lost character.

FINING COUNSEL.

Judson T. Mills, of South Carolina, was Judge of a District Court in Northern Texas, fond of a joke but very decided in his discharge of duty. Thomas Pannin Smith was a practising lawyer at the bar and having shamefully misstated the law in his address to the jury, turned to the Court and asked the Judge to charge the jury accordingly. The Judge was indignant, and replied:

Does the counsel take the Court to be a fool?"

Smith was not abashed by the reproof, but instantly responded:

"I trust your honor will not insist on an answer to that question, as I might, in answering it, truly be considered guilty of contempt of Court."

Fine the counsel ten dollars, Mr. Clerk," said the Judge.

Smith immediately paid the money, and remarked it was ten dollars more than the Court could show.

"Fine the counsel fifty dollars," said the Judge.

The fine was entered by the clerk, and Smith, not being ready to respond in that sum, sat down. The next morning, on the opening of the Court, Smith rose, and with much deference of manner began:

"May it please your Honor, the clerk took that little joke of yours yesterday about the $50 as serious, as I perceive from the reading of the minutes. Will your Honor be pleased to inform him of his error and have it erased?"

The coolness of the request and the implied apology pleased the Judge, and he remitted the fine.

CELTIC WIT.

An Irish counselor having lost his cause, which had been tried by three Judges, one of whom was esteemed an able lawyer though the other two were indifferent, some of the other barristers were merry on the occasion.

"Well, now," said he, "who could help it, when there were a hundred Judges on the bench?"

"A hundred!" said a bystander; "there were but three."

"By St. Patrick!" replied he, "there were one and two alphers."

WEBSTER.

Two stories of Daniel Webster are not "legal" but good:

When Hayne, of South Carolina, urged on by his Southern friends, had made his speech which called forth that immortal reply of the great "Northern Lion," many of Webster's friends, struck with Hayne's real ability, began to say to each other, "Can Webster answer that?" Mrs. Webster was present at the Capitol and was greatly agitated at the fire and force of the hero of South Carolina. She rode home with a friend in advance of her husband. At last the "Lion" came tramping up to the door and marched in, in an easy unconcerned way. His wife hastened into the hall just as she was, and, with tears in her eyes, said to him, "Can you—can you answer Mr. Hayne?"

With a sort of grunt or quiet roar her lord turned upon her: "Answer him? I'll g-r-i-n him finer than that snuff in your box!"

In due time the Websterian thunder rolled through the arches of the Capitol, and Hayne was ground fine.

"What do you think now," says the General's friend to his Southern acquaintance, "of our Northern lion?"

The reply came quick, but rather sugrily: "He's a long-jawed, strong-jawed, tough-hided devil!"

Among the Websterians there is nothing of higher than the answer to the French Minister, who asked him, while Secretary of State, whether the United States would recognize the new Government of France.

The Secretary assumed a very solemn tone and attitude, saying:

"Why not? The United States has recognized the Bourbons, the Republic, the Directory, the Council of Five Hundred, the First Consul, the Emperor, Louis XVIII, Charles X, Louis Philippe, the—"

"Enough! enough!" cried the French Minister, perfectly satisfied by such a formidable citation of consistent precedents.

GEN. GRANT ON RECONSTRUCTION.—A special dispatch to the Boston Advertiser says

There has been a good deal of talk during the past two or three days about General Grant's position on the reconstruction question. It will be remembered that some time last summer, when the Johnson party was in the days of its childhood, one Colonel Hillyer, formerly on General Grant's staff, wrote a letter to somebody in Indiana, saying the General indorsed the President's policy, which allegation was met by saying that neither Hillyer nor any one else had authority to speak for him. The Democratic members of the Judiciary Committee of the House, it appears, thought a point for the President might be made out of the matter, and accordingly Gen. Grant and Colonel Hillyer were summoned to give evidence in the impeachment inquiry. Hillyer testified that a long interview took place in February of last year, between the President, Gen Grant and himself, and that his letter as to Gen. Grant's position was founded on what was then said. Hillyer had but recently returned from an extended tour in South; and was giving some account of affairs down there. He spoke of the generally unsettled condition, and General Grant indorsed his report by saying he had discovered the same state of facts in his hurried trip a short time before. The President made some observation to the effect that matters would not become right till the States were restored to the Union, and that this ought to be done as soon as possible, to which both his hearers assented. General Grant was before the Committee on two occasions, and his evidence was far enough from being pleasing to the gentlemen by whom he was called. He said in effect, as is understood, that he had not thought it his province to meddle in politics; that he had never been asked by the President for his advice or opinions on political matters; that in all he had said about the necessity for early restoration of the Union he had spoken as a military man and as a citizen, and not as a politician; that in his view military rule ought to cease as possible consistent with justice and safety; that the Southern people themselves should be anxious for the restoration of the civil authority, that he had always understood the President's work in the South as of a temporary character, and at most as but an aid to Congress in setting up the civil Governments; that he had not sympathized with the President in his conflict with Congress; that he thought the fixing of terms of reconstruction was matter belonging to Congress; that in his judgment the South made a grave mistake in not long ago heartily accepting the terms offered; that he stood firm by the Congressional plan, and that he was anxious now, as he had ever been since the end of the war, for the early restoration of the rebel States to the privilege of representation in Congress.

KEROSENE SAUCE.—During the war while campaigning against Johnny Rebs in Virginia, it was the fortune of our regiment to confer on one Cornelius Pete the blessed boon of freedom, which he duly appreciated by offering his services as cook of the mess to which I belonged.

Pete had done chores 'round Massa's house, and professed to be perfectly at home in the kitchen—understood the cuisine thoroughly.

After swearing, therefore, to bear true and faithful allegiance to the United States on a dime novel, and to serve the stomachic interests of its defenders, he was installed as the presiding genius of the camp pot and kettle.

Supper that evening, and breakfast next morning, were cooked in good style, and we would have thought our contraband a treasure indeed had he not shown that he was not infallible by frying some hominy with a cake of fancy soap, under the mistaken impression that it was grease.

Everything else was done so well, however, and this slight accident being discovered in time to prevent bad results, the shortcoming was soon overlooked.

For dinner Pete had promised us something extraordinary; it was nothing more nor less than a real "Virginny Injun pudding" as a dessert.

Our poor, hungry mouths watered at the mere idea, and we thought we had never sufficiently prized such things when at home.

The dinner hour came—unctous pork and very hard tack formed the substantial portion of the meal, and one who knows it requires but little practice to quickly dispose of that.

The pudding was anxiously looked for, and it came. Pete smilingly approached to where the mess assembled, uncovered the tin plate on which was the object of an appetizing desire, and requested the boys to partake of the masterpiece of cookery.

Simultaneously each thrust his knife into the savory mass, conveyed a piece to his plate, and thence to his mouth, and then——

Well! a catastrophe happened just about that time.

A descendant of Ham was seen making vigorous strides from Government A tent, propelled forward by several chunks of leather incased on the feet of some "boys in blue."

It was needless to say he was not shouting "Excelsior!"

Pete had besmeared his coat "Virginny Injin pudding" with a sauce of kerosene oil and molasses, which of course, our mess could not stomach, and consequently ejected their cook as above related.

Ugh! I can almost taste the disgusting stuff yet. It took a confiscated keg of Bourbon to rinse it out of our mouths thoroughly; and that night the most respectable mess of the regiment was placed under arrest for drunkenness for the first time, it took so much to thoroughly cleanse the system.

Some one who uses a sensible pen wrote these words: "The poor pittance of seventy years is not worth being a villian for. What matter is it if your neighbor lies in splendid tomb? Sleep you with innocence. Look behind through the tracks of time; a vast desert lies open in retrospect, through this desert your fathers have journeyed, wearied with tears and sorrows they sink from the walks of man. You must leave them, where they fall, and you are to go a little farther where you will find eternal rest."

It can be predicted, with no room for doubt that the prediction will be fulfilled, that the triumph of the negro ticket in any one of the Southern States will be equivalent to the "organization of hell" in that State.—Chicago Times.

If the Republican ticket carries in the Southern States, there will be no "organization of hell" unless the rebel minority organize it, and if they do they will catch "damnation," that's all.—Chicago Tribune July 23.

The succession of the late Dr. Jobert de Lamballe has just been settled in Paris. The portion falling to each of his five heirs is 560,000 francs, 2,800,000 francs in all. The illustrious surgeon went to Paris a poor lad.

The New York City Directory contains the names of 177,317 persons, while that of Philadelphia registers the names of 102,110—showing a smaller difference than is generally believed.

THESE WHEELS, unequaled and unrivaled in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, more than forty being in use at this date, driving all kinds of machinery, Saw Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories &c., &c.

On account of the late calamity to the OREGON IRON WORKS we have lost a few Wheels, but of these sizes we have a good supply, therefore those contemplating using this Wheel need not be disappointed, but forward their order at once, accompanied with the CASH, which we now need more than the Wheels.

We cheerfully refer to all using our wheels, and are assured that all will affirm that our wheels accomplish all and even more than we claim for them. Address

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE."

J. H. UPTON & A. NOLTNER, Proprietors.

ON SATURDAY AUGUST 31 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title, will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics, News, and the development of the varied resources of the State. In politics the CHRONICLE will be unflinchingly Democratic, supporting and advocating all those reforms in National and State policy, so urgently demanded at the present time by every consideration involving the weal of the American people. The necessity for a Democratic organ firmly planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State. Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE, and with the State thoroughly Democratic to day, with all prospective changes in favor of that party, there is no sufficient reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success.

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics, the News of the day, the Agricultural Mining, Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention. A twenty-eight column paper, 20x35 inches in size, will furnish ample space and enable us to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved. We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of.

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE.

Terms of Subscription:

Single copy, one year..... $ 3 00
Five copies, one year..... 13 75
Ten copies, one year..... 25 00
And for any greater number, one year, at the rate of $2 50 each.
